

DEATH OF WILLIAM HECHLER

Successful Meat Dealer Who Farmed With Profit Near Here

Charles Hechler, prominent in the retail meat business in New York and for the past six years a resident of north Broadway, where he lived on the farm which Peter Ali sold him, died last Friday evening from fatty degeneration of the heart, after an illness of one month.

On Friday his condition showed great improvement and Dr. C. A. Luce, who was attending him, thought he would pull through. At six o'clock members of his family left him in his room in excellent spirits. When they returned five minutes later he was dead.

Mr. Hechler was a native of Darmstadt, Germany, and came to this country, at the age of 16 years, 41 years ago. He was married in New York to Miss Elizabeth Raabe and ten children were born to them, all of whom are living. They are Charles, Jr., Theodore, Elizabeth and Madeline, who live at their city home in New York, and Mamie, Carrie, Anna, Henry and Martha, who make their home here.

Mr. Hechler is also survived by his widow and one brother, Louis Hechler, living on Chauncey street, Brooklyn.

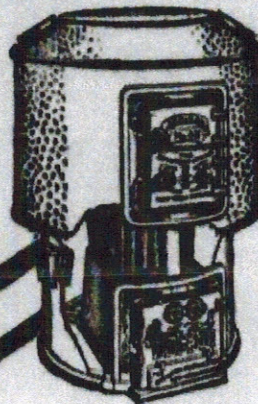

For twenty years Mr. Hechler conducted a meat market on Columbus avenue, New York. His son Theodore, who was associated with him, will continue the business and make his home in Amityville where Mr. Hechler has developed a thrifty little farm and orchard.

Funeral services were held on Tuesday afternoon at Mr. Hechler's home on Broadway. The Rev. E. A. Blake, pastor of the Simpson Church, officiated and the remains were taken to Brooklyn for burial in the Lutheran cemetery.

Mr. Hechler's death was a sudden blow to his family, as he had always enjoyed good health. He was a member of the order of Odd Fellows, of Duetsche No. 76 Verein, the Hessen-Darmstadt Verein and the Real Estate Owners Association.

The Furnace with Square Firepot

The most efficient heat producer

The Square Pot Furnace will greatly lessen the amount of coal you use, as it is impossible for the square firepot to become clogged or congested with clinkers. Therefore it gives more heat per unit of space. The square firepot is patented and used exclusively by the

BOYNTON FURNACE CO.

It is built like the firebox of a locomotive—no ashes can remain in it—the coal is given power to generate intensified heat—and the whole cost of heating the house is thus minimized to its lowest extent.

Ask your dealer to explain the many other features of Square Pot Furnaces, Boilers, Newport Ranges, etc. If you don't know him, we'll send his name on request
